

Innovation Challenge Week

In a bid to remove barriers to justice, our team of researchers here at Legal Innovation Lab Wales got together for an Innovation Challenge Week, to identify areas of access to justice that could be improved through innovative LegalTech.

Check out the teams process for identifying innovative solutions below:

Shortlist Areas

- Identify routes commonly taken to access justice.
- Shortlist challenges faced that would benefit from LegalTech innovation.

- Discuss each area in greater depth.
- Share ideas on ways in which tech could help improve each one.
- Consider restraints of the challenge (for example, timescale).

Generate Ideas

Research

- Take ownership of one idea and conduct a more in depth look of how the solution could be applied.
- Research processes already in place and how the idea would fit.

- Develop a prototype to illustrate how the idea improves access to justice.
- Create a foundation from which others can build and further develop to improve their services.

Development and Prototypes

Results

Congratulations! You've developed an innovative concept solution, now you can share what you've created with others and consider further developing your idea to establish even wider reaching results.
